1. In cases where a client reference letter or certificate of satisfactory completion is not readily available, would invoices be considered acceptable evidence for demonstrating the execution of projects included in the Project List? In case invoices are not considered acceptable, please specify any other alternative supporting documentation that would be acceptable.

Bidders should comply with the requirements of Section 5.2.3.1 of the RfP regarding the submission of the project list. The Company reserves the right, if needed, to request supporting documentation and/or any additional evidence deemed necessary for the verification of the information provided.

2. May projects that commenced within the period specified in the experience requirements, but are currently ongoing, be included in the Project List? If such projects would indeed be eligible, would invoices issued under the relevant engagement be considered sufficient evidence of the project's implementation? In case invoices are not considered acceptable, please specify any other alternative supporting documentation that would be acceptable.

Pursuant to Section 5.2.3.1 of the RfP, the Project List shall include projects that have been awarded and successfully completed within the relevant five-year period. Accordingly, ongoing projects may not be taken into account for the purposes of demonstrating compliance with the relevant experience requirement. The Company reserves the right to request supporting documentation and/or any additional evidence deemed necessary for the verification of the information provided.
