The Contracting Authority confirms that declarations and contractual documents that were collected, executed and signed in anticipation of the original proposal submission deadline may be submitted and will be accepted under the revised submission deadline, provided that the content, facts and circumstances contained therein remain true, accurate, valid and unchanged as of the revised submission deadline.

This applies, indicatively, to ESPD forms, subcontracting declarations, declarations regarding the accuracy and validity of submitted documents, conflict of interest declarations, private subcontracting agreements and other similar declarations or contractual documents executed for the purposes of this procurement procedure.

To confirm the continued validity of such documents, bidders may submit a declaration signed by their duly authorized legal representative confirming that:

- the information, statements and commitments contained in the previously executed documents remain true, accurate and valid;
- no material change has occurred in relation to the facts, circumstances or information declared therein since their execution and signature; and
- the relevant documents continue to reflect the current status of the bidder and/or the respective subcontractor.

The above confirmation does not apply to the letter of guarantee. Any letter of guarantee already issued based on the original submission deadline must be reissued and/or amended, as applicable, so as to fully comply with the revised submission deadline and all other requirements of the Invitation to Tender, including the required validity period.

Economic operators remain solely responsible for ensuring that all documents and information submitted as part of their proposal are accurate, complete and valid as of the revised submission deadline.

Should any change have occurred since the execution of the original documents, the relevant document(s) must be updated and resubmitted accordingly.
